PHRG - Peace Human Rights Governance is the new open-access journal of the University of Padova Human Rights Centre, which prosecutes the ten-year experience through the review Pace Diritti Umani – Peace Human Rights.

PHRG is an academic peer-reviewed journal published three times a year, in March, July and November. It constitutes an innovative scientific resource within the increasing and multi-faceted global human rights studies community. In particular, it aims to present original contributions to current human rights issues while actively favouring the development of a solid multi- and inter-disciplinary, and multi-level approach to human rights research and dissemination.

PHRG welcomes unpublished research articles that address original aspects concerning the relations of human rights and subsidiarity with several issues including, but not limited to: world order and governance issues, international law, politics and organisation, international and cosmopolitan democracy, national and European foreign policy, civil society transnational networking, city diplomacy, global citizenship, public policy, intercultural and interreligious dialogue, women's human rights, the human right to peace, conflict transformation and conflict resolution, education processes, trafficking of human beings.
